Caring Gene Career Pathways Training Program

Caring Gene is a Workforce Investment Organization (WIO) dedicated to strengthening New York's healthcare workforce through education, workforce development, and strategic partnerships.

As the administrator of the Caring Gene® Career Pathways Training (CPT) Program, funded through New York State's 1115 Medicaid Waiver, Caring Gene partners with healthcare employers, educational institutions, workforce organizations, and state agencies to expand access to healthcare careers and address critical workforce shortages. By reducing financial barriers, providing comprehensive student support, and connecting graduates with healthcare employers, Caring Gene helps build a sustainable workforce and improve access to care, particularly in rural and medically underserved communities.

Through its partnership with NYSACHO, Caring Gene seeks to increase awareness of the CPT Program, connect with local health departments and other eligible employment providers, expand service commitment opportunities for graduates, and collaborate on workforce solutions that strengthen New York's public health infrastructure.

Department of Health

New York State Department of Health

The New York State Department of Health (NYSDOH) is dedicated to protecting and promoting health and well-being for all New Yorkers, building on a foundation of health equity, supporting optimal physical, mental, and social well-being, and working to eliminate health disparities.

Through the Building Our Largest Dementia (BOLD) program, NYSDOH is working to improve long-term health outcomes for individuals living with Alzheimer's Disease and Related Dementia (ADRD) and their caregivers. Key initiatives include increasing awareness of brain health, early detection, and prevention; improving access to diagnostic and treatment services; strengthening the capacity of the health care workforce; supporting chronic disease risk reduction and management; and expanding clinical-community linkages.

NYSDOH is also working to strengthen partnerships with local Offices for the Aging and local health departments to promote brain health and ADRD risk-reduction strategies and expand the statewide ADRD coalition.
